

Opportunities for Veterans in Local Government

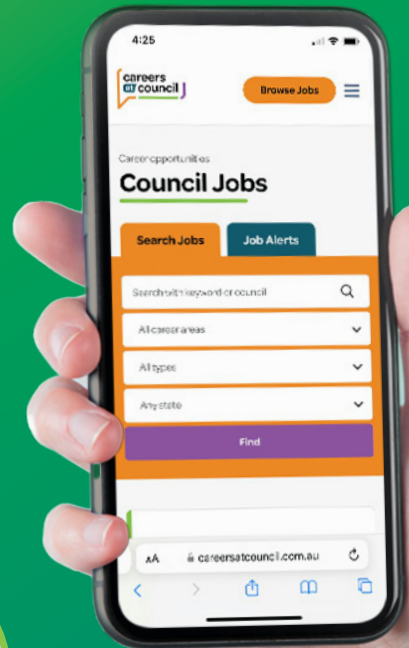

Like the ADF, councils offer rewarding work in a diverse range of management, professional, technical, trades, health services and administrative roles. With 537 local governments across Australia, this means the skills and experience of you and your partner, are transportable from one council to another, making employment easier to find if you move locations.

And like the ADF, local government has a strong service ethos. Councils exist to serve their communities – to design, build and maintain the facilities and services their residents and businesses need.
